Two Courts To Hear On Monday Anin Contempt Case

TERRITORY WANTS SPEEDY IMPRISONMENT

The Attorney General's Department was again today disappointed in its efforts to hurry on the Anin contempt case. The Territory yesterday filed its motion before Judge Lindsay to vacate and set aside the order releasing Anin on his own recognizance on the grounds that an appeal to the Supreme Court does not lie in cases of direct contempt. The motion was formed so as to provide for a hearing of it this morning at 10 o'clock, but although both Deputy Attorney General Milverton and Frank E. Thompson, who, together with Judge Humphreys, is representing Anin, were on the scene ready for action, the motion was not heard as Judge Lindsay did not come to court today. It is understood that the Judge did not hear of the motion until late yesterday and that for this reason he did not have time to hear it.

In the meantime both the Attorney General's Department on one side and Judge Humphreys and Frank Thompson on the other side, are preparing for a battle royal in the matter, which will take place next Monday forenoon. As a matter of fact there will probably be two separate battles fought in different courts regarding the same case and the full force of legal warriors in the case will be engaged in the fight.

First at 9 a. m. the Territory's motion to vacate the order releasing Anin will be heard before Judge Lindsay. Deputy Attorney General Milverton will handle the Territory's case, while Frank Thompson will appear for Anin. The Territory holds that an appeal does not lie to the Supreme Court, as this is a case of direct contempt, and that the only remedy Anin has from the sentence of ten days imprisonment imposed on him by Judge Lindsay is habeas corpus proceedings. The whole matter rests on the construction of the famous section 3073 of the Revised Laws. Both sides feel confident that they are right, so an interesting legal battle can be expected. Should the Territory succeed in having the releasing order vacated, Anin will have to start in immediately on the service of his sentence in jail. It will then be up to Anin's attorneys to get their client out on a writ of habeas corpus. This would bring the case before the Supreme Court almost immediately, which is exactly what the prosecution desires.

The other fight in the case will be before the Supreme Court at 10 o'clock Monday forenoon, when the Attorney General's Department will present its motion to place the matter of the execution of Anin from Judge Lindsay's sentence on the calendar. This motion will be presented by Attorney General Peters and opposed by Judge Humphreys. It is an assured thing that Judge Humphreys will stand strictly on his legal rights, which give him ten days in which to place the matter on the calendar. Should Humphreys be victorious, as he expects to be, the Grand Jurors will have to possess their souls in patience before they see Anin punished for his naughty behavior towards them. Furthermore, it is generally conceded by both sides that the most important phase of the matter is not so much to have Anin punished, as it is to have him punished swiftly. If the matter is delayed, as it now threatens to be, the moral effect of the Anin case, which was primarily intended to be a warning to other witnesses, will be in a great measure lost.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WAIOHINU, Kau, Hawaii, Jan. 31.—At a meeting of the Thompson Settlement Association, held at Waiohiniu District of Kau, County of Hawaii, Territory of Hawaii, on January 27th, 1906, the following open letter to Land Commissioner Pratt was unanimously decided upon by the members present:

Hon. Jas. W. Pratt, Commissioner of Public Lands, Honolulu.

Sir:—Feeling that you are placing every obstacle possible in the way of obtaining the land applied for by the Thompson Settlement Association with the evident intention of defeating the settlement of public lands by American Citizens first: by attempting to change from Right of Purchase Lease to Cash Foreclose; second, by notifying the Association through Subland Agent White that the land would be assessed at from $50 to $100 per acre, knowing full well that any such appraisal would render it impossible for anybody but rich men to take up said land, totally ignoring Sec. 214 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii and, when finding this position of yours untenable, as a last resort, cutting up the lots into such small areas that to acquire them, under the stringent rules laid down by you would condemn the applicant to certain starvation.

The Association claims, under Sec. 513 and 533, that they have the right to acquire one hundred acres for each member if the area of the tract selected will permit of such division, and we deny the right of the Honorable Commissioner to assume that he is the law and that he can decide, without justification, as to the number of acres we are to receive.

The law clearly sets forth the conditions under which an applicant can acquire and retain land and the Honorable Commissioner should see that the law is carried out but not attempt to make laws to suit himself or others.

If the Commissioner has the power to limit an applicant to an area which he may deem advisable, then what is to prevent him from deciding upon giving one acre or less, which, upon its face, is absurd, but no more so than to cut them up into such small areas that no man could subsist upon them.

We propose to carry out the law in all its requirements, but we object to being prejudged, claiming that it is our right to select land under the law, and yours to oust us if we default in the conditions required for retaining it.

We do not propose to have these matters decided contrary to law and will, if necessary, appeal to higher authority. While we are deeply interested in the success of the Sugar industry, realizing, as we do, that the land we have applied for is tributary to a plantation, and our success would depend upon the success of that industry, yet we disclaim your right (as set forth in your letter of late date) to state what crops we shall raise and (Continued on Page 5)

Malted Milk King With Private Yacht And Auto Coming To Hawaii

MAJOR VINCENT TO HONK-HONK PARADISE

Major Vincent, who was proclaimed as a secret service agent by the morning paper, is no more a member of the United States secret service than he is an evangelist.

He comes to Honolulu as a man of apparently more than comfortable means and incidentally is scattering gifts abroad with a lavish hand. The gifts are from Horlick, the malted-milk king, and consist of handy articles for the hospitals and Maternity Home, drug stores, and other places.

Vincent is Horlick's friend, a very close friend, and Horlick says to Vincent: "Major, since you are going to make a tour of the world and incidentally take in the Hawaiian Islands, I wish you would oblige me by taking along a few trunk-loads of malted-milk souveniers and distribute them where they will be appreciated. Leave a few near-silver nutmeg shakers on the soda-water stands and drop in on the hospitals and hand them a few conveniences gratis; but keep away from the newspapermen, and if you meet any newspaper owners on the steamer going down, fill them up with malted-milk."

Horlick may not have used these exact words, but the idea is correctly represented; and, sure enough, Vincent did meet a newspaper-owner on the boat coming down, and the latter imbibed of the malted-milk without a straw.

Vincent is a charming man to meet. He is of the medium height and wears a reddish-brown, low-hanging box coat, a white vest with red dots, turndown collar with brown silk tie, gold collar-stud with diamond, white-corded yachting-cap, patent-leathers, and a cane. He is stopping at the Young and does not like to be interviewed. His modesty shuns newspaperery. As a matter of fact, he is not traveling for malted milk, for he has weightier things to do. His distribution of malted milk souveniers is a matter of friendship between Vincent and Horlick.

Horlick, by the way, is soon going to start on a tour of the world in his magnificent private yacht, and he will stop at Honolulu and make a cruise around the islands. He will bring along his automobile also.

Talking about automobiles, Major Vincent intends making an automobile tour of the islands during the six weeks he expects to remain here. He may purchase an auto for the purpose. If not, he will choose a machine from the Von Hamm-Yong garage.

Vincent comes by his title of "Major" through the volunteer army.

Golf Grounds For Public

A splendid public golf links is to be laid out in Kapiolani park.

The Hawaii Promotion Committee is at work on a scheme whereby the people will have a convenient links for their use without money and without price.

The Promotion Committee, through its secretary, H. P. Wood, has communicated with the Park Commission and the latter body has responded, favoring the plans providing the Commission is put to no expense. The money has already been guaranteed, so there need be no fear in this regard on the part of the Commission. Mr. Wood will report the matter to the next meeting of the Promotion Committee.

Honolulu already boasts one of the most beautiful links in the world, at Moanalua, but this is not within easy reach of people now owning animals or vehicles.

WATCHING THE TICKER

President Doornicus was questioned as to investments. He said that the $35,000,000 of assets was divided about equally between securities and real estate.

"Have you found it necessary to watch the ticker to see when you could make a profit?" asked Examiner Hughes.

"No," said the witness, with a decided chuckle of satisfaction.

President Doornicus said that the Germania's business was a great deal more profitable in Germany than in this country.

"Why is that?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"They don't have our wild ways of doing business," he explained, laughing. "The methods are not unlike, but the figures are."—The New York Evening Sun, December 29, 1905.

OLINDA SOLD

The lease of "Olinda," the H. P. Baldwin mountain house on Haleakala, was sold at auction by Land Commissioner Pratt this noon, the old lease having expired. There was no competition in the bidding, and the lease was secured at the open price of $2800 by H. A. Baldwin.

Waialua Japanese End Strike

The strike of 225 Japanese laborers in the Kawailoa section of the Waialua plantation came to an end Thursday night, the strikers being granted none of their demands.

The row was really between two Japanese crowds, over gambling. One crowd wanted certain men fired and demanded that the plantation act. Others of the Japanese finally talked sense into the heads of the disaffected.

Motomugi, big man among the Japanese, made a rousing speech in which he declared that strikes only injured the plantation and in consequence would injure the strikers; besides, Japan was in a lot of trouble since the war, and they should all work faithfully and try to send money home for the support of widows and orphans.

The plantation, therefore, won a victory with little or no effort, the peace-makers being among the Japanese.

SHORT COURT TERM

Clerk Frank L. Hatch, of the United States District Court, returned today from Hilo, where he accompanied Judge Dole, who opened the court term there last Thursday. Three naturalizations were made and as there was no other business for the court to do, and adjournment was taken the same day. Judge Dole then left for the Honolulu sheep station, where he will spend a week. He is expected to return to Honolulu next Saturday.
